with Betty Allen...

Not everyone gets mentioned or quoted in the Saturday Evening Post, but John Marovich, 392 Hamilton Ave. did both in yesterday's Post, which carried an article about the Hendy Plant, "Factory in the Country."

Tops in dirty tricks happened to Fred Smith the other day. For many years it has been customary for the ranchers, when doing tractor work, to leave their tools beside the road in order to avoid long trips home for a necessary item. Whilte tractoring at his Quito Road ranch, he left his tools, which included several "hard to get" articles, beside the road. When he went to pick them up they had vanished!

Twenty-five years ago, on his birthday, May 5, Manuel Vintro left Taunton, Mass., and has not been back since. Late this month, Mr. and Mrs. Vintro will leave Campbell to visit in Taunton with their arrival date timed to be the twenty-fifth anniversary of his departure.

"Fortune" will carry in its May issue a large advertisement for Santa Clara County, "the population center of the Pacific Coast". Seems like it's getting pretty crowded, alright.

One day last week Ira Grim was backing out of his driveway. He looked carefully up the street and down the stretet; seeing nothing he proceeded to back out, when, to his horror and amazement he crashed into another car (lightly, I hasten to add). It seems that across the street at precisely the same minute, Miss Dorothy Merriman was also cautiously backing out of her driveway. She, too, looked up and down the street before continuing to back out. The two cars met in the middle of the street and such timing probably couldn't be duplicated again in a hundred years.

Heard rumors that Dean Chamberlin is having trouble getting enough men for the Footlighters' production of "The Male Animal." Wonder if the boys are all too busy looking for butter for their wives?

Everyone seems to think everyone else knows all the "inside dope" on the location of the post office. Among the most interested is Bude Little. . . . Since he's living in one of the "hot" sites.

Over 75 tables were filled at the Legion card party Saturday evening and the party was reported a great success.

Sunday in San Francisco the USS New York was open for inspection and a large crowd turned out to see the gallant old girl, the distinguished veteran of two wars, to whom everything has happened including a Jap suicide plane. She's bound for "Destination Crossroads" and it's a fitting end for such a fighter for she'll still be a part of the future by contributing to the coming tests.

Remarks by landlubbers on board ship are always especially delightful. One woman peering curiously through a porthole exclaimed: "This must be the living-room!"

Campbell music lovers turned out in a big way for the San Francisco symphony Friday evening. Glimpsed among the audience were Mrs. Monica Parr, Ray Fish, the Ray Bishops, the Misses Beth and Florence Kennedy, Mr. and Mrs. J. M. Dahl, Mr. and Mrs. J. K. Schrader, Miss Helen Stray and Mrs. Carl Field.

Industry In Rural Areas Discussed

One of the war's unexpected compensations is the i ncreased skill of people living in rural areas, Charles Moore, head of Hendy Ironworks, Sunnyvale, Calif., says in an article in this week's (April 13) Saturday Evening Post.

"The war sent millions of people to school to be upgraded to better skills," Mr. Moore says. "The real wealth of our nation is the ability of our people to produce. We have increased our national wealth in proportion to the increase in our know-how. . . . We don't have to worry about competition from nations with low standards of living. If we are smart enough to capitalize on what our people have learned during this war, this country can outproduce any other nation."

Mr. Moore bought the foreclosed Hendy plant in 1940 to obtain machine tools for plants expanding to meet war defense orders, according to The Post article, "Factory in the Country", by Frank J. Taylor of Los Altos, Calif. Instead of selling the machinery, however, he expanded the plant under an inundation of war orders, increasing his payroll from 53 to a peak of 8,000. As soon as materials are available, the plant will go to work on a good backlog of orders for turbines and Diesel engines for Russia and China, the article adds.

The record made by Hendy and other plants located in the country is directing the tide of industry toward rural areas, The Post article reports, and "the Santa Clara Valley is a good example" of why.

When war orders flooded in on Hendy "the plant's employment office never . . . beat the drums for help, and . . . never imported trainloads of workers. . . . The countryside seemed to be an inexhaustible reservoir of workers. . . . Hendy had none of the housing, feeding, transporation and recreation headaches that plagued was industries elsewhere, because these problems were already solved. When the whistle blew, the Hendy employees were only a few minutes from their homes on surrounding farms or in nearby small towns.

"Nobody at Hendy worried about the morning-after-the-war cutbacks. . . . Hendy workers returned to their tractors and to their kitchens. Most . . . expect to be back on the Hendy payroll soon, when materials are available to build peace products."

Hendy employees don't worry about layoffs, because most of them can make a good living off the land, Mr. Taylor writes. "Johnny Marovich kept 12 acres of prunes, apricots and walnuts in production. Dried fruits and nuts were high priority war stuffs, too. So Marovich, like Yardmaster Paul Arnerich, with 10 acres of prunes at Los Gatos; Machinist Johnny Blue, with 15 acres at Sunnyvale; Frank Snyder, who ran a Hendy planer by day and grew 'cots after hours; Crane Operator Ray Garner and Tom Myers, the steel-saw man, as well as several score of other Hendy workers, doubled in iron and foodstuffs."

At war's end, the average Hendy worker had $2000 in cash in the bank, over and above a stack of war bonds, E. L. Harriman, man-

Death Calls Mrs. Anna Hanson

After a long illness, Mrs. Anna Hanson was called by death last Friday, April 5, at the family home on N. Central Ave. A native of Wisconsin, she leaves two brothers there in addition to her husband, Ed. Hanson of Campbell, a daughter, Mrs. Gladys Hanson of Rio Linda; and a sister, Mrs. Theodore Anderson of Campbell. Mrs. Hanson's niece, Miss Ruby Anderson is well known in Campbell for her singing. Last summer Mr. and Mrs. Hanson celebrated their 50th wedding anniversary.

Final rites for Mrs. Hanson were held at the Rutherford Funeral Home on Winchester Road, Monday, April 8, at 2:30 p. m. The Rev. Lawrence Osborne of the Campbell Methodist church, officiated at the service. Interment followed at the Santa Clara City Cemetery.

Pallbearers at the funeral were Elton E. Frey, George Johnson, W. A. Ludiker, Walter H. Stray, Nelson Cowdrey and Theodore M. Anderson.

Red Cross Drive Near Goal

Mrs. H. F. Cousins, chairman of the Red Cross drive, reports that with the additional generous contributions received this past week the Red Cross drive of Campbell now has reached a total of $4510.

A few more solicitors are yet to be heard from and it is expected that, with their reports, the total quota of $4700 will be obtained.

"As chairman of this drive," Mrs. Cousins says, "I wish to thank all who gave so generously of their time to solicit our district; also the merchants and all the people of Campbell who gave their support to this worthy cause."

Growers Urged To Delay Grafting

P. B. Payne, walnut grower of Campbell for 40 years and brother of the late George C. Payne who originated the Payne walnut, recently advised walnut growers to wait u ntil weather conditions are more settled before grafting trees.

Payne said he had received many inquiries from growers—as many as 14 'phone calls in one day—asking about grafting. He said walnut trees can be grafted all through April and May, and advised growers to be in no hurry.

The present unsettled weather conditions may cause bleeding, preventing wax to stick to the tree, and spoiling the graft, Payne said.

Schools To Observe Easter Vacation

Tomorrow will be the last day of school for students at both Campbell Union High school and the Campbell Elementary school until the day after Easter. Beginning Monday, April 15, both schools will close for a week in a traditional observance of Easter.

Many members of the teaching staff and the students are planning vacations and trips during the holidays and many of the high school students will spend the entire week at Santa Cruz.

Campbell Elementary School Vaccinates Pupils

The County Health Department with the donated services of Drs. Paul Werthman and Gabe C. Long, vaccinated 670 elementary school children on Thursday and Friday, April 4 and 5. It is hoped that vaccinations may be completed on Wednesday, April 10, during the "Well Baby Clinic" regularly held at the grammar schol, and in the afternoon at the same time the adults' vaccination program is scheduled.

Public Health Nurse Week

"Know Your Public Health Nurse Week" opens today in Santa Clara County with a program to include movies, speakers, distribution of literature and posters, and displays in downtown store windows, Mrs. Alfreda Runge, chairman of the campaign and president of Unit 12, Public Health Nurses Association of Santa Clara County, announced recently.

The educational week is sponsored by the P. H. N. A. S. C. C., and will receive the cooperation of civic and health organizations throughout the county. Purpose of the campaign is to promote better understanding of public health nursing as a service to every one, regardless of ability to pay.

"One of the best allies of the private physician is the public health nurse," Mrs. Runge said yesterday. "Busy as he is, the physician does not have the time or opportunity to help his patients to carry out the details of his instructions. The public health nurse is thoroughly trained and experienced, especially equipped to do this and renders the physician and the family great service."

The goal of public health nurses, Mrs. Runge added, is to attain the best health for all residents of the county. To this end, she said, all community groups should make a concerted effort to make health facilities now available better understood.

English Wife Here

An English war bride, Mrs. Thoburn Merritt, recently arrived in Campbell and is visiting at the home of her husband's grandfather, Edward Vanator, and his sister, Miss Leila Merritt. After more than a year's wait for transportation, Mrs. Merritt was allowed passage on a Red Cross ship. She is the former Miss Joyce Inwards of London.

Her husband, a former technical sergeant, is now employed in Virgilia and Mrs. Merritt will join him there next week. He has been visiting in Campbell since his wife arrived and the family has taken the English girl on several sightseing trips about the valley and to San Francisco.

A New Organization Proposed For Campbell

By GEORGE E. ARLEDGE

For some time it has been considered advisable to form an Association of Taxpayers in Campbell. To fully consider this matter a meeting was held Monday evening at which a representative number of taxpayers unanimously agreed that such an association was necessary, and should be formed without delay.

The aims and objects of the associations are as follows:

(1) To encourage and promote thought and action of local, state and federal government whereby the liberties, private ownership of homes, farms and other properties may be maintained and protected.

(2) To inform members and affiliated organizations concerning the difficulties or problems confronting the people, and suggest remedies to overcome same.

(3) To cooperate with local government in the solution of fiscal or other problems which will make home, farm or other properties more attractive.

(4) To encourage in whole or in part activities designed to increase the number of homes, farms or other properties throughout the United States as a foundation of sound citizenship.

(5) To collect, interpret and disseminate the facts concerning the control and regulation of all State and Federal activities.

(6) To further the enactment and enforcement of local, State or National laws having as their object the preservation of free enterprise, and generally to foster laws which will ensure better living conditions throughout the country.

(7) To amalgamate or work with any State or National organization having similar aims and objects.

(8) To arrange monthly or special meetings at which debatable questions may be discussed in open forum.

(9) To study all tax measures carefully, and to support or oppose them as they may affect the tax payers.

(10) To encourage and attract new industries or the expansion of existing ones which may benefit the community.

Rules for the association were drawn up, but will be subject to ratification or amendment at a later meeting.

Object No. 8 is of particular interest at this time. The school bond question is one which must be fully discussed. It calls for the expenditure of a large sum of money which the taxpayers must find. The Taxpayer's Association will collect these facts in an impartial manner and place them before you. You—the people—will have an opportunity of debating these questions at a special meeting to be arranged.

The association will be strictly non-partisan, non-sectarian and non-profit. It will interpret the will of the people, and expend its funds entirely for the benefit of taxpayers.

It was decided not to form a permanent committee until a later date when a larger number of members could cast their votes.

George E. Arledge was elected secretary pro tem.

Further details will be posted to residents of the community within the next few days.

Applications for membership may be addressed to George E. Arlidge, P. O. Box 233, Campbell, Calif.

Copelands Have Baby Girl

Felicitations are in order for Mr. and Mrs. Alex D. Copeland, San Tomas Road, who became the parents of a baby daughter March 27, at O'Connor Sanitarium. The little lady has been named Carolyn Lavonne.

Dryer Makes Report On Farm Labor

A check of last year's books at the Campbell Cooperative Dryer by G. K. Schrader, manager, reveals the fact that growers in the valley "borrowed" farm labor from the dryer to the extent of more than $35,000 during the season.

In the 1945 harvest season the Campbell Cooperative Dryer had 95 Mexican Nationals under contract. These men were housed, fed and cared for by the dryer under the supervision of John Helzer. Kitchens were set up at the dryer and all details, such as ration books and clothing, were taken care of for the men.

When these men were not employed by the dryer they were "lent out" to grower members to help with the growing and harvesting of their crops. The ranchers called for the men in the morning and returned them at night. Their work included helping with the pruning, brush picking, spraying, tree planting, irrigating, thinning, proping and harvesting, picking vegetables, cherries, apricots, pears, prunes, grapes and walnuts.

Growers were charged 85 cents per hour, plus 3 cents for insurance, for the use of the Nationals which makes the total paid to the dryer of slightly more than $35,000 demonstrates the value of this service.

Directors of the dryer who deserve much credit for making this service possible to association members are: J. V. Gomes, J. B. Benson, Robert Scholz, Stanley B. Smith and Harold Jepsen.

According to Schrader plans will not be made concerning the Mexican Nationals this coming harvest season until it is seen whether there will be enough local labor.

Taxpayers' Association Gives Incorporation Information

A recent issue of "The Tax Digest", published monthly by the California Taxpayers' Association, discusses the matter of incorporation. The w riter says: "Communities, like people, seem to fall in with trends of the time. Just yesterday, all the bobby soxers were swooning about Sinatra. Forty years ago, their grandfathers were all for the strenuous life with Teddy Roosevelt.

"Now in California, there is apparent a 'trend' toward incorporation by heretofore unincorporated communities. During the last fiscal year incorporation discussions were opened in a number of places and definite proceedings for incorporation were started in several. Among those communities in which programs for incorporation are noted are Mojave in Kern County, Barstow in San Bernardino County, Kerman in Fresno County, Portola in Plumas County, Half Moon Bay in San Mateo County, and Avenal in Kings County."

In this same article the various sources of revenue which an incorporating town may select are discussed and figures are given for expenditures in a number of incorporated cities under 1000 in population.

Also, the writer presents the State law setting out the steps for municipal incorporation which can be briefly summarized as follows:

1. The portion of the county wishing to incorporate must have at least 500 persons.

2. A petition must be signed by at least 25 per cent of the landowners of land situated within the proposed city, and the land must represent at least 25 per cent of the value of the whole area as shown by the assessment rolls. Such land must include both subdivided and/or densely populated areas and farming and/or industrial areas. The petition must describe the boundaries of the proposed city and the number of inhabitants it will contain. Three of the landowners must certify that the signatures upon the petition are genuine by attaching an affidavit to that effect to the petition.

3. The petition shall be presented to the board of supervisors of the county at a regular meeting. It shall be referred to the clerk of the board for checking as to its accuracy in description of boundaries and if it contains the requisite number of signatures, and, if found to be accurate, the board shall order the clerk to accept the petition for filing upon the petitioners depositing with the clerk the amount necessary to defray publication of petition and notice of election.

The chairman of the recent Red Cross drive, Mrs. H. F. Cousins, deserves an unusual amount of credit for reaching Campbell's quota, inasmuch as many people feel the last year has been nothing but one drive after another. In most cases the same workers have done all the work and the same people done all the giving. And now there's another drive coming up—the American Cancer Society's campaign for funds.

There's another side to think about though. As our civilization grows we must keep up our fight against the constant foes of want, suffering and disease. These drives, irritating to some, are, at the present time, our best method of paying our obligation to our fellowmen and giving each individual an opportunity to build a better world.

Letters to the Editor

Campbell Residents Should Support Local School Bond Issue

Editor:

In connection with the forthcoming Bond Issue of the Campbell Union Elementary School District to be voted upon May 24, 1946, there are several factors to consider:

Primarily, schools are for the benefit of the children of the district. To be so, it is beneficial to have them situated so they are convenient to the children's homes and parents. Safety features of all kinds should be considered, and where possible it is desirable to cut down on long unnecessary transportation. It has been the experience where desirable schools existed that good homes have been built in these communities, creating community spirit and interest in the school.

The presence of a schol in a community brings cultured people to that community. Nearby schools make neighborhoods more civic minded, and more persons are interested in taking part in school activities and school sponsored organizations such as character building organizations, including Camp Fire girls, Girl Scouts, Cubs, Boy Scouts, Y. M. C. A. organizations, etc.

In the smaller sized but efficient neighborhood schools, there are better opportunities for more pupils to participate in the various activities and there are better chances for parents to know the school and the teachers. Also, for the teachers to get better acquainted with the parents and the community.

For the above reasons I believe that the proposed program of the Campbell Union Elementary School District should be considered favorably.

GEORGE JEFFERS.

Dear Editor:

There has been during the present year a great deal of discussion in both houses of Congress regarding the proposed loan to England, and of course other countries are looking for a hand out. The word "loan" is simply a cover up; it is not a loan—it is a gift with no thought of getting any of it back.

Quoting from the Congressional Record, little do the people of America realize that plans are being laid to give away another 15 billions. To whom? To the people of America? Not by a long shot, but to those that we have already given 199 billions in the lest two world wars. The thing that disturbs the people of this country most is the dishing out of more billions, given top priority over any spending in our own country; every bill to help our own people is lost, but foreign gifts are given the green light. Does this make sense?

It is time that we take care of our veterans and their dependents; we chisel from them so we can squander billions abroad. Once Winston Churchill declared that he would never be a party to the breaking up of the British Empire, and certainly the American people do not want to be parties to a movement which will certainly break up and divide the only FREE nation in the world if this give away of the taxpayers' money continues.

England is a substantial owner, if not in many cases the controlling owner, of stock in 140 of the largest corporations in the United States. When we loaned England in the first world war and we asked for some interest we were called Uncle Shylock.

The State Department has agreed to sell England 6 billions of new surplus property for $650,000,000, or ten per cent of its value; we have handed Britain $5,000,000,000.

That is one of the reasons the veterans of this country cannot get the articles they ned so badly. In conclusion, let us take an inventory of our own resources before we give our country entirely away.

P. B. PAYNE.

Editor: Elections, it has occurred to me, could profitably be more dramatic and exciting to the general public than they usually are. It means something when about half of potential voters do not go to the polls.

Why not have competition to see which political subdivisions turn out the largest percentage of their registration? This sort of contest might be made an election-day game.

There could be a contest, say, between Campbell Township's ten precincts. The necessary figures would all be naturally available. Just a little comparing the actual vote with the registration would show which precinct was tops.

The contest might even spread to the county's ten townships. Campbell Township might be tops over all.

No actual prizes would be essential. The honor would be enough. As matters stand some precincts and some townships have

WAR NOT EXPECTED

WASHINGTON.—That the Truman cabinet is not looking for war in the near future, despite warlike talk, was indicated at a secret session of the Senate military affairs committee recently.

When Secretary of State Byrnes and Secretary of War Patterson testified in favor of an extension of the selective service act, the figures they presented on planned strength of the Army and Navy were exactly the same as those presented early in January. In other words, they proposed an army of barely over a million men by July of 1947.

The Senate had expected that because of the complicated international situation a larger army would be asked for, but the War and State departments made no such request. When one senator asked how it happened that there was no "emergency" planning, Secretary Byrnes refused to answer. He passed the question to Secretary Patterson, who also did not reply.

WALLACE SPEECH CENSORED

It wasn't supposed to be known outside the cabinet, but Henry Wallace's speech at the Jackson Day dinner was censored—by President Truman himself. Wallace had one line in his speech which he thought would answer Republican critics. It read:

"Abraham Lincoln was not a member of our party. But he was certainly a fellow traveler."

Truman thought such a reference to the martyrned Lincoln might be misunderstood and cut out. Wallace was glad to concur.

MEN'S SUITS

It still looks like a long wait before veterans can get the clothing they need. The office of war mobilization and reconversion will soon bring out a report on men's clothing showing a need for 40 million suits this year but production plans for only about 28 million.

The report will also show that first quarter production has been only about 5 million, and officials of the civilian production adminstration are worried sick that even the goal of 28 million suits for 1946 will not be met.

There is no sign yet that the increase in prices granted this month by OPA will mean more men's suits. There are indications, however, that large stocks of suits are being held off the market in the hope that price control will not be extended beyond June.

For years John L. Lewis has been one of labor's top negotiators. Uusually he has his facts cold. Recently, however, while arguing safety precautions with Harry Morse, an important Pittsburgh mine operator, he said:

"Why, Harry, your father is a good illustration of why we need these safeguards. Everybody knows him as a veteran coal man, and we've all seen him limping around for 50 years because of a mine accident. So how can you sit there and deny us the safeguards to prevent the same sort of thing from happening to other miners?"

"John," replied Moses, "I don't know where you get your information about my father—but it wasn't so good. I'll tell you how he hurt his leg. It wasn't in a coal mine, it was playing baseball. He broke his leg sliding into second."

NOTE—Bureau of mine officials heartily endorse Lewis' demands for better safety precautions in the mines.

DIPLOMATIC VICTORY

During the heyday of the Roosevelt administration, Vice-Pres. Jack Garner gave a dinner for the late Will Rogers at which the cowboy humorist, commenting on a forthcoming international conference, said:

"This country has won every war, but lost every conference."

Recently, however, one international conference closed at Savannah, Ga., at which the United States won every single round. It was the first world monetary conference, and the man responsible for the American victory was hard-hitting Fred Vinson, Secretary of the Treasury.

His chief battle was over the location of the international bank and the stabilization fund to be established under the Bretton Woods plan. The British wanted the bank and fund located in New York, but Secretary Vinson wanted them in Washington. When the vote was taken, there was only one vote against Washington—Lord Keynes' vote.

Who said Campbell can't come back? A number of our old citizens can remember a few years back when Campbell was one of the best advertised little towns throughout the Santa Clara Valley and a well organized baseball club was responsible for this notoriety. Campbell will be in the limelight again this year from what we can observe and if rumors are correct we will create an impression in more than one of our neighboring towns before the summer comes to a close. Several teams have indicated a desire to cavort around the field in competition with our boys, and, by heck, guess we will be able to take them on.

Incorporation Information

4. If the money is deposited within 15 days after the clerk has been directed to accept the petition, the petition shall be filed, and at its next regular meeting the board of supervisors shall set a time for hearing thereon, and direct the publication of the petition for at least two weeks before the time fixed for such hearing, together with a notice stating the time of such hearing, in a newspaper of general circulation printed and published in the county.

5. Thereafter, hearing shall be had and it may be adjourned from time to time, not to exceed two months. The board may make changes in proposed boundaries as it deems proper, except that it may not include territory outside of the boundaries described in the petition. The board shall establish boundaries and determine the number of inhabitants residing within those boundaries. It shall then give notice of an election to be held in the proposed corporation to determine for or against incorporation and also to elect municipal officers.

6. The election shall be held under the general election laws of the State, and qualified voters are those who are entitled to vote in the county and who have resided within the limits of the proposed corporation at least 30 days prior to election. Notice of election shall particularly describe the boundaries of the p roposed corporation, its name, the number of inhabitants residing therein and the date of election and shall be published in a newspaper of general circulation within the boundaries of the proposed corporation or posted in four public places therein for at least two weeks prior to the election. The ballots shall be marked "For Incorporation" or "Against Incorporation" and shall also contain the names of persons to be voted for to fill the various municipal elective offices prescribed by the law of the class to which the proposed corporation shall belong. The board of supervisors on the Monday following the election must canvass the vote, and in the event of a majority is in favor of incorporation an order shall be entered on the minutes of the board declaring the territory duly incorporated, and a copy of the order shall be filed with the Secretary of State. Industry In Rural Areas Discussed ager of the town's leading bank, told Mr. Taylor. Furthermore, Mr. Harriman said, nearly every Hendy worker has paid off the mortgage on his home.

Another industrial giant that grew up in the valley is the Food M a c hinery Corporation, which turned out "water buffaloes" for Pacific amphibious landings. The Post article reports that plant has swung back to food-processing machinery and orchard equipment.

Typical of the valley's surprising electronics manufacturing industries is the Jennings Radio Company, just outside the San Jose city limits, Mr. Taylor says. "Jennings Radio turned out $500,000 worth of electronic products last year. Joe Jennings and his partner, Calvin K. Townsend, thought highly enough of their peacetime outlook for business to turn down some good offers from big competitors who wanted to buy them out. . . ."

"We'd rather stay here," Townsend explains in The Post. "What it takes for a little company like ours to stay in business is resourcefulness rather than resources."

John Hancock, president of the Continental Congress, was the first man in history to be elected to any office by voluntary suffrage.

The Book Mark

One day there appeared in the classified section of The Emporia Gazette a small ad which read: "My wife is going visiting tomorrow. Nobody will be home except me and I hate eating Sunday dinner by myself. Is there anyone who would care to invite me over for dinner that night?" The ad was signed William Allen White. Needless to say, he got his invitation.

This is one of the stories told about the famed editor of the Emporia Gazette. Like a host of others, it attests to the fact that though he was the intimate of eight of our Presidents, dating back to McKinley, and was generally accepted as one of our most outstanding Americans, William Allen White always considered his native Emporia as "his town" and the people in it "his friends." A famous novelist as well as editor, and one of the original judges of the Book-of-the-Month Club, he took most pride in his reputation as "the voice and conscience of Kansas."

A few years ago, another story goes, he was standing in line waiting to get a degree granted him by Columbia (one of eight universities presenting him with honorary degres during his lifetime). The man in front of him turned and asked him where he was from. White replied, "I guess I don't belong here; I'm just a country editor from Kansas." To this, the questioner responded, "I guess I don't belong here either. I'm only a country doctor from Minnesota." The "country doctor" was William J. Mayo.

"I have worked most of my life," White w rote in his "Autobiography," which is the current selection of the Book-of-the-Month Club, "within a few thousand feet of my birthplace." His birthplace was Emporia, and he was educated at the Kansas State University. But he quit before graduation to take a newspaper job, and later was editorial writer on the Kansas City Star. In 1895 he bought the Emporia Gazette, circulation 400, for $3000. By the late twenties it had a circulatoin of 6000 and he could have sold it for a quarter of a million.

Bill Would Give GI's Leave Payments

A bill to grant GI's the same terminal leave payment now enjoyed by commissioned officers is being studied by the military affairs committee of the House of Representatives, Congressman Jack Z. Anderson informed local veteran circles today.

In signing a petition to bring the measure to the floor of the House for early action, Anderson, a member of the naval affairs committe, expressed full agreement with veterans' dissatisfaction over unequal treatment for enlisted men.

GI's are now discharged without receiving compensation for earned leave, while commissioned officers receive full pay and allowances for all accumulated leave.

$400,000,000 construction program under way on the Pacific Coast

During the next five years, a four hundred million dollar construction program is planned to improve and expand telephone service on the Pacific Coast.

This program is already under way and is going ahead steadily.

In 1946 alone, more than 70 building projects, installation of eight billion feet of wire in exchange cable and construction of 200,000 miles of toll and long distance circuits are expected to be completed. Work will be started on the Western part of a nation-wide coaxial cable network for long distance and television transmission, and in the next few years many new services and improvements will be introduced.

For it is our purpose to grow with the West and to help the West grow—to provide an ever-widening, ever-improving telephone service.

Wanted: Pay Plan for Bees

This country needs more legume crop seed, says Farm Advisor L. C. Barnard.

To get better legume seed yields, seed growers need more bees to pollinate legume crops.

According to the amount of bees, beekeepers need some arrangement by which they can get pay for the work their bees do in pollinating the seed growers crops.

Of course, the busy bees take part of their pay in nectar and pollen for making honey. The farm advisor quotes Dr. J. E. Eckert, of the University Experiment Station, to show the importance of bees in pollinating fruit, vegtables, and legumes. The 15,980,000 pounds of honey and 336,000 pounds of beeswax produced by the beekeeping industry in California last year were merely by-products. At least 700,000 acres of farm crops in California depend on bees for pollination or yield more abundantly when bees are plentiful.

The trouble is that bees and other pollinating insects are not as plentiful as they once were, and in recent years legume seed yields have fallen down alarmingly, according to Dr. Eckert. With the clearing of the fence corners, wild bees and other insects that used to do part of this pollinating work have gone the way of the passenger pigeon. But man can still control the numbers and location of honeybees.

With sugar supplies short, beekeepers now get top prices for all the honey their bees can produce. But when sugar again gets plentiful, beekeepers may face a falling market for honey. In face of that prospect, Dr. Eckert suggests it is desirable for seed growers and beekeepers to get together to share the expense of keeping enough bees to pollinate legume and other crops that need more bees.

With only 470,000 colonies of bees in California it is necessary to move them often to pollinate crops. Dr. Eckert says that growers should expect to share in this expense.

Cooked Frozen Meat

The usual method of freezing meat does not materially change the texture and flavor. Therefore, frozen meat should be cooked according to the best method for the cut and grade of the meat.

It may be cooked according to one of two methods. Either thaw the meat first, and then cook according to the regular times and temperatures for meat cookery, or the cooking may be started while the roast or steak is still frozen. In the latter case, additional time must be allowed. Thawing meat before cooking has some advantage as the same time and temperature can be used as for the fresh cut. The thawing takes place at refrigerator or room temperature, and therefore does not use extra fuel.

When thawing, do not allow the meat to go past the icy stage as excessive thawing, or standing after thawing, may result in the increased loss of juice. Unthawed meat may be cooked directly by allowing usually 20 to 25 minutes extra time per pound for a solidly frozen roast. A low temperature, 300 to 325 degrees, allows more uniform thawing and cooking, and will prevent a cold or icy interior when the roast is done on the surface.

Ten to twenty minutes longer per pound should be allowed for steaks.

For information on freezing meat or poultry ask for the free bulletin "Freezing Storage", available at the Agricultural Extension Service, 201 Post Office Building, San Jose, Columbia 3866.

Avila's Market Installs Pasteuray Unit

The first in the vicinity, Avila's Market has installed a Pasteuray electronic ray unit in its meat cooler and produce department.

According to Jimmy Avila, the new Pasteuray in his cooler will greatly improve all the meat sold in his market. His cooler will be kept fresh at all times because the electronic rays destroy the invisible bacteria germs contained in the air in the cooler.

Pasteuray is designed to do for meat and produce what pasterization does for milk. The installation of this electronic ray and the benefits of obtaining meat which has been protected by Pasteuray will not mean any increase in the price of meats, Avila stated.

Avila and his staff will be pleased to show customers the new electronic unit and explain how the bluish-colored light perfectly protects his meats and produce.

Dent To Make Report at Conference

James Dent, Campbell High school principal, will read a report on the subject "Physical Education, Health and Recreation" at the Secondary Schools' Principals conference in San Francisco, April 15, 16 and 17.

The group was divided into committees last year to study various phases of education and Dent was appointed chairman of a six-county committee who have studied the subject for the past year in order to make a report to the main body next week.

As a result of the research and study, Dent says the committee feels strongly that physical education should be available for everyone with sports in their proper prospective.

Parking In San Francisco

More than one Northern or Central California resident, visiting San Francisco these days, has been annoyed to find his automobile tagged for a parking violation. What makes this state of affairs doubly irritating is the fact that the visitor often is in the city to kep an important business engagement or to visit a doctor's office.

But if the visitor isn't happy about the situation, neither is San Francisco. The people of San Francisco are in the same predicament. They get plenty of parking tags, too.

There simply isn't enough curb and off-stret parking to provide for the enormous number of cars in downtown San Francisco. Construction of garages was "out" during wartime. The Army and Navy still require a considerable amount of parking space. Therefore, parking laws must be strictly enforced to prevent serious congestion and possible paralysis of traffic.

It's heartening to learn that San Francisco is doing its best to alleviate the situation. Plans have been projected for greatly increased garage space, including a new underground garage. Parking meters are to be tested for possible installation to ration downtown curb space. And curb parking space is being retrieved from the Army and Navy as rapidly as possible.

There is one aspect of the parking problem in which the out-of-town visitor can cooperate for the mutual protection of himself and the public. Because of a number of serious accidents due to runaway autos, a San Francisco ordinace requires that all cars parked on hills have their front whels cramped against the curb. If the visitor will do that, no matter how slight the grade may seem, he will save himself from getting a "ticket"—and he may save an innocent pedestrian from injury or death.

Sheriff Candidate On Terminal Leave

Shedding the uniform and donning civilian clothes is a wonderful feeling according to Major William H. Young, candidate for sheriff of Santa Clara County. Major Young was separated from the service and began his terminal lease on Friday, March 29. On the same day he was promoted to the rank of major for superior military service.

The citation of promotion was supported by letters of recommendation over the signature of his various commanding officers. Lt. General Clay, commanding officer of the American Occupation Forces in Germany; Major Gen. O. P. Echols, commanding general of the Internal Affairs and Communications Division, United States Group Council; and Col. R. V. Graves, commanding officer of the 517th Parachute Infantry Battalon, were the names supporting Young's promotion. The letters of recommendation referred to Major Young's vast civilian experience as a peace officer as well as his record as a military police officer.

Further, the citation mentioned his work of the reorganization Munich, Germany, police department. Here, Major Young was in charge of establishing a police force in a community as large as San Francisco and Oakland combined. He was solely responsible for this reorganization. His work as the reorganizer of this police force brought him into contact with many of the kind of problems he will be facing as sheriff of Santa Clara County. His vast experience as a detective in the San Jose police department prior to his entry into the service, will also stand him in very good stead as sheriff.

Young is a firm believer that the backbone of our nation lies in its youth. He saw in Germany that the Nazis had used the younger generation to intrench themselves in the German way of life for many years to come. He believes that with the proper corrective juvenile delinquency program, Santa Clara County will produce the type of leaders that will be needed in future years.

Thereafter the second installment of the 1945 taxes becomes delinquent and penalties and costs will be added. If taxes remain unpaid the property will be advertised as delinquent. Taxpayers are urged by the tax collector, Roy P. Emerson, to check over tax bills and mail their taxes as early as possible, thus avoiding last minute rush and delay. All taxes paid after noon of April 20, 1946, will carry a 20 per cent penalty, plus costs.

Grange Has Past Masters' Night

Tuesday evening was Past Masters' night for the Orchard City Grange, and the program arranged by Mrs. Nellie Rutherford, Mrs. Jessie McChesney and Joe McKinnon was especially for them. Included were musical numbers by Beverly Clausen, Mardel Sanders, Joleen Howard, the Rev. Robert Carlson and Lloyd Nelson. Mrs. Irma Sanders accompanied the latter two.

Members of the Footlighters presented a Gay Nineties skit entitled "We'll Have to Mortgage the Farm."

The past masters who were entertained were Harry Barnes, Nick Hedegard, W. R. Coupland, Stanley Smith, Lawrence Hendricks, L. L. Merrill, Werner Raab, M. F. Hughes, J. C. Gordon, and Mrs. Jessie K. McChesney. Also Orchard City Grange charter members, Mrs. Jessie Campbell and Mrs. Charlotte W. Sutter. A pin for meritorious service was awarded the latest past master, J. C. Gordon, by the present master, Herbert Shadle.

M. F. Hughes gave a very interesting talk on selective service in the light of the atomic age and recommended that young men be selected according to their specialized mechanical ability and training instead of along old fashioned lines of ability to march and carry a gun.

The Campbell school bond issue concerning the relief of the overcrowded grammar school was discussed by Lloyd Gardner, M. F. Hughes and S. N. Hedegard. Many interesting facts pro and con were brought out.

Decorations and refreshments were prepared by Mr. and Mrs. J. M. Dahl and Mr. and Mrs. Colin Graham.

Shingle Preservation

The preservation of new and old redwood and cedar shingles can best be done according to J. P. Fairbank, extension specialist in agricultural engineering of the agricultural extension service, Berkeley, by the application of the following materials:

Mix five pounds of plumbago (Mexican graphite), to one gallon of raw linseed oil and thin down with shingle oil so that the material will flow on the surface to be treated and not pile up between and at the ends of the shingles.

This mixture will make a good slate color. Should color be desired chrome green may be added.

For additional information regarding this subject you may call upon G. D. Worswick of the local Agricultural Extension Service, 201 Post Office Building, San Jose, Columbia 3866.

Air Line Chooses S. F. for Big Base

San Francisco's position as the West's great air terminal was strengthened this week with the announcement that United Air Lines will establish at San Francisco Airport the maintenance and overhaul base for its entire nationwide system.

A factor in the air line's decision to locate its big base here was the action of San Francisco voters last November in voting a $20,000,000 bond issue for improvement of the municipal airport. This will make it possible to provide additional land for the airline's project, which will require a total of half a million square feet.

The project will provide about 800 new jobs before the end of the year and a total of 6,000 jobs before the end of 1955.

Meanwhile, the City Planning Commission has approved a survey looking toward a joint airline transportation terminal for San Francisco, which would provide a central point from which passengers could be transported to the airport.

County Incomes Rise

Individual incomes of Santa Clara County's civilian residents rose from $105,818,000 in 1939 to $239,563,000 in 1944, according to a survey by the research department of the California State Chamber of Commerce, announced today. This was an increase of 126.4 per cent over the five-year period, in comparison with a 144.6 per cent gain for California, and a 109.6 per cent gain for the nation.

Impact of wartime population and industrial changes on the economy of California counties is appraised in the study, measured by net incomes from wages and salaries, proprietors' profits, property and other sources.

Wages and salaries accounted for $61,415,000 of individual incomes in Santa Clara County in 1939, or 58.04 per cent of the total, according to the survey. By 1944, wages and salaries had jumped to $152,229,000, or 63.54 per cent of the total.

Proprietors' net incomes—profits of proprietors and partners in noncorporate farm and business enterprises—rose from $13,627,000 in 1939 to $39,908,000 in 1944.

Property income—including dividends, interest, net rentals and royalties—accounted for $20,682,000 of Santa Clara County's 1939 individual incomes. By 1944, this type of income had risen to $31,769,000.

Other income, including pensions, direct relief, compensation, social security—and in 1944, military dependents' allotments and veterans' mustering out pay—was $10,094,000 in 1939, and $15,657,000 in 1944.

Principal source of wage and salary income to Santa Clara County residents was manufacturing, where payrolls increased from $15,334,000 in 1939 to $62,185,000 in 1944, the State Chamber's report states. Trade and service enterprises accounted for $34,240,000, agriculture for $16,861,000 and utilities operation for $11,256,000 in 1944 local payrolls.

Kilmartin Runs For Coroner

Thomas F. Kilmartin, present chief deputy coroner and former San Jose automobile dealer and Treasury Department representative in war bond drives in this area, who has announced his candidacy for coroner and public administrator in the June 4 primary election was in Campbell this week.

Kilmartin has resided in Santa Clara County for 38 years and has been prominently identified with a majority of county civic functions. For the past three years he represented the U. S. Treasury in all war bond campaigns in Santa Clara, Santa Cruz, San Benito, San Mateo and Monterey counties.

After conducting his own automobile business in San Jose for 20 years, Kilmartin left the motor car field in 1939. He indicated, during his recent visit, that this is the first time he has sought public office.

"I feel that my many years of business experience and close contact with county civic activities particularly qualify me for this position. I fully realize the importance of this county office, which, with the rapid increase in population, is assuming greater importance in Santa Clara County," said Kilmartin.

"Having no outside interests or business connections, my entire time will be devoted to the duties of the coroner and public administrator's office," added Kilmartin, appointed to his present post as chief deputy coroner by Mrs. Jessie A. Spalding, who is retiring.

In 1934 he was code administrator for the 47 Northern California counties when the automobile industry operated under the NRA. He also served as chairman of War Price and Ration Board 32-1 in San Jose, which he resigned to supervise war bond drives.

Kilmartin and his wife make their home in San Jose.

CHRISTIAN SCIENCE

The subject of the Christian Science Lesson-Sermon for April 14th is the question "Are Sin, Disease, nad Real Death?" The Golden Text is from Psalms: "Why are thou cast down, O my soul? and why art thou disquied within me? hope in God; for I shall yet praise him, who is the health of my countenance, and my God" (43:5).

Citations from the sermon:

Revelation 21:3: "And I heard a great voice out of heaven saying, Behold, the tabernacle of God is with men, and he will dwell with them, and they shall be his people, and God himself shall be with them, and be their God."

"Science and Health with Key to the Scriptures" by Mary Baker Eddy: "All that really exists is the divine Mind and its idea, and in this Mind the entire being is found harmonious and eternal" (p. 151).

deserved the honors in the past without being recognized. Some recognition would create a competitive stir.

Failure to vote has long been thought a form of adult delinquency. It means something when competitive games are being more and more recognized as a remedy for delinquency among juveniles. It means that adults, being also human, would be less delinquent if right conduct were made more fun.

Parents, we're told, are largely responsible for juvenile delinquency. Who's responsible for adult voting delinquency? I wonder if it isn't those who fail to make elections more exciting. Here is a chance to start something that may help.

Box Office Reporter

Theater goers have an unusual treat ahead for them this Friday and Saturday at the Campbell Theater in "The Southerner." The Loew-Hakin production adapted from Geore Sessions Perry's novel, "Hold Autumn in Your Hand," is a film of high artistic quality. For beauty of photography and sound few recent pictures can match it.

The interest here lies in the theme and its presentation. One year in the life of a farmer and his family, from harvest to harvest, tells the whole story. At the beginning one man is picking another's crop and at the end he has lost his won, but the year of struggle in betwen has not blunted his determination to wrest a free living from the soil.

To point up the theme there is the contrast of a friend who urges the security of a town job at good wages, and also the sickening example of a man who has won out after bitter years of tenant farming at the p rice of his family and his won capacity for happiness. The film passes no judgment; it suggests that each man choose as he must.

Not that the picture is an abstraction. There is a wealth of incident and a series of dramatic climaxes—a sick child, a barroom brawl, the landing of a giant catfish, a hand-to-hand fight with a neighbor and the final flood and devastation after the rains came. And there are some fine performances even if the characters are but lightly sketched. Zachary Scott is impressive as the man who must farm his own land, and Betty Field, Beulah Bondi, J. Carrol Naish and a strong cast give him fine support.

In the presentation, there is abundant evidence of the "continental" approach and the touch of one of its masters, Jean Renoir, who directed. Dialogue is sparse, but pictorial beauty, even in the midst of privation, is richly manifest. Accompanying this, and remarkably integrated with it, is the sheer beauty of the sound track. There is music in the rumble of a plow and the swish of a scythe which is picked up ingeniously for incidental pieces by the orchestra. Lucien Andriot, who supervised the cameras, and Warner Janssen, who wrote and directed the music, deserve high praise.

Undoubtedly the film will make its greatest appeal to the few patrons who will treasure its artistry, but there is entertainment and interest enough to reward all who see it.
